

VILLAGE LIFE

EL DORADO HILLS, CALIFORNIA

Our experts are waiting...
CLICK HERE NOW!

Home | Entertainment | Business | Sports | Real Estate | Road Beat | Special Sections | Digital Media | Mt Democrat Media Gallery

Local News Stories | Columnists | What's Happening | Letters

WALKER'S
New Business Solutions

Placerville
Better Prices
Better Service
Better Selection
Better than the big box stores

FREE
Next Day
Delivery

Online COUPONS
CLICK HERE
& SAVE

About Us

- + Location
- + Staff Directory
- + Rack Location
- + Privacy Policy
- + Employment Application

Forms

- + Classified Ad
- + News tip
- + Photo Order
- + Press Release
- + Submit a Letter

Advertising

- + Rate Cards
- + Area Covered

Links

- + Local Links
- + Davis Enterprise
- + Winters Express
- + Daily Republic
- + Mountain Democrat

Email Article | Printer Friendly | Comment on Story

No horsing around: Rescue group helps unwanted horses find greener pastures

SLIDES

By Noel Stack | Managing editor | October 13, 2009 11:44

HAY DAY — All About Equine founder Wendy Digiorno feeds Clayton, a 4-month-old foal, at her rescue ranch in El Dorado Hills. Digiorno currently houses more than a dozen horses, many of them were headed for slaughter before she took them in. Mother Lode News photo by Pat Dollins

All About Equine works with Valley View Ranch Equine Rescue to pull slaughterhouse horses away from the jaws of death. She described their condition as "terrible" when the first batch came to her ranch.

"Some of them have never been handled," Digiorno said.

And so the slow process of recovery begins for these animals given a second chance. It could take months to rehab a horse and then All About Equine pairs the animal with a new owner to "create lifelong relationships."

Digiorno's effort caught the attention of El Dorado Hills resident Anni Benson, a volunteer who grew up around horses.

"Between my family and I we're here every day," Benson said.

All About Equine relies on volunteers like Benson and donations to keep the horses healthy and happy. Digiorno won't accept a horse unless she has six months worth of funding, about $500, available to cover the animal's basic care.

Veterinarians and farriers donate their time. All About Equine sells donated items on craigslist, holds car washes and relies on private donations to keep running the operation. Digiorno is applying for 501(c)3 status and said all funds coming in go directly to the animals.

"We really can use anything and everything," Digiorno said. "We could save a lot more if we had the funding and resources."

If funding becomes available Digiorno said she has big plans for All About Equine - adding an arena to better train and work with the horses and building more shelters and additional fences so the rescue operation can expand.

Ideally, every horse that steps into All About Equine would go back out to a loving home. Digiorno said she encourages anyone considering buying a horse to look at rescued horses first.

"It's just great satisfaction knowing the have a future," Digiorno said. "It's all about these guys and making a better life for them."

nstack@villagelife.com Share your opinion.

Name:

Email: (Will not be published)

Comments:

Clayton has had it rough.

He suffered a leg wound, an umbilical hemorrhage and an ulcer - all in his first few months of life.

On top of it all, the little guy didn't have a mom.

Any other horse might lie down in the dirt and give up. But Clayton got lucky. He found a home and an adopted family at All About Equine's rescue ranch in El Dorado Hills. The foal now spends his days munching hay and recovering, thanks to excellent care.

"This guy's been a little trooper," said Wendy Digiorno, All About Equine founder. "He's been through a lot of treatment."

It's stories like Clayton's that pushed Digiorno to create her horse rescue after years of considering the idea. She has 14 rescued horses, one-third of them youngsters, at the 15-acre facility she opened on her parents' property this past June.

"Eleven horses have come from an actual slaughterhouse feed lot," Digiorno said.

El Dorado County
Chamber of Commerce

Hangtown Hold'em

January 30, 2010

El Dorado County Fairgrounds, Placerville

Pre-Registration Required

$50 Buy In
$25 Re-Buys
$25 Add-on Limit: 2 Re-Buys and
1 Add-On Per Player

Old West Attire Encouraged!

MORE INFO

SHOP ON LINE & SAVE!

AFFORDABLE FURNITURE & BLINDS

PRICE GUARANTEE

It's our promise
never to be undersold
on identical merchandise
and service.
30 day price guarantee
on any competitors
published ads.

NATIONAL BRANDS

Shop From The Convenience of Home

SAVE

TONS!
Placerville, CA

AFFORDABLE
FURNITURE & BLINDS

To prevent unauthorized use of this form, enter the code shown below.

Spam Stopper Code:

Submit

Village Life is published every Wednesday by the Mountain Democrat Inc. All images and text within these cyberpages are copyrighted by the Mountain Democrat ©
1360 Broadway, P.O. Box 1088, Placerville, CA 95667 (530) 622-1255 Fax (530) 622-7894

Back To Top